Educating Energy Leaders

Located in the energy capital of the world, the C. T. Bauer College of Business at the University of Houston draws on the expertise of the city of Houston to provide an energy curriculum that is unmatched.

C. Gregory Harper (MBA '97) worked his way through the energy industry. The education Harper received from Bauer's MBA program allowed him to build upon his engineering background and advance his career into executive leadership, including his current position as Senior Vice President of Midstream at Southwestern Energy.
